Project 2016 Recap

Thanks to the more than 2,000 students, staff, faculty, and community members who participated in the 11th annual "The Project at Rundberg" event, the Rundberg area continues to be an area of neighborhood revitalization projects. The 2016 event was a success, with many volunteers working on a variety of projects, including landscaping, painting, and more. The event was a great success, and we look forward to continuing the work in the future.

Mentoring the Future

Uthman Sultan, Uthman's brother, a leadership class for middle school students in an after-school program serving at-risk youth.

Youth mentorship program

The Austin-Tarrant Police Department partners with the Boys and Girls Club, YWCA, and other local youth programs to run a youth mentorship program aimed at engaging young people who live in neighborhoods with the highest percentages of crime. The goal is to improve the youth's participation in school, after-school, performance, and leadership skills at a young age so that they will be better equipped to make healthy life decisions as they get older. The mentorship includes teaching leadership and school study skills and building the youth's appreciation for education and community building. Program participants have reported improved grade point averages and school attendance after engaging with the mentorship program.
