

LEPH2021 has been extended for the whole week of 22 - 26 March 2021 to accommodate the large number of abstracts and session proposals

REGISTER NOW

“Law enforcement and public health sectors should work in partnership to develop and support legislation, policy and practice that facilitate the common goals of preventing harms and enhancing community safety and wellbeing”

- Why is the obvious intersection and common goals of law enforcement (especially police) and public health so poorly recognised and understood?
- Can inclusive policing really help to overcome discrimination and marginalisation?
- What actually works, ‘on the street’ and in practice?
- Can you help build police-public health partnerships that are effective, accountable, sustainable and inclusive?

Join fellow practitioners, researchers and policy makers at LEPH2021 and contribute to resolving these challenging issues.

Register at: leph2021philadelphia.com/registration/

Find out more at: leph2021philadelphia.com/

CONFERENCE CONVENERS

IN COLLABORATION WITH

GLOBAL LAW ENFORCEMENT &
PUBLIC HEALTH
ASSOCIATION INC.

Join GLEPHA and receive a discounted registration fee for the LEPH2021 conference. Go to gleapha.wildapricot.org and join others with an interest in the challenging intersection of law enforcement and public health.