

MADISON POLICE DEPARTMENT'S SPECIAL INVESTIGATIONS UNIT

CHIEF NOBLE WRAY

LIEUTENANT TOM WOODMANSEE

DETECTIVE SAMANTHA KELLOGG

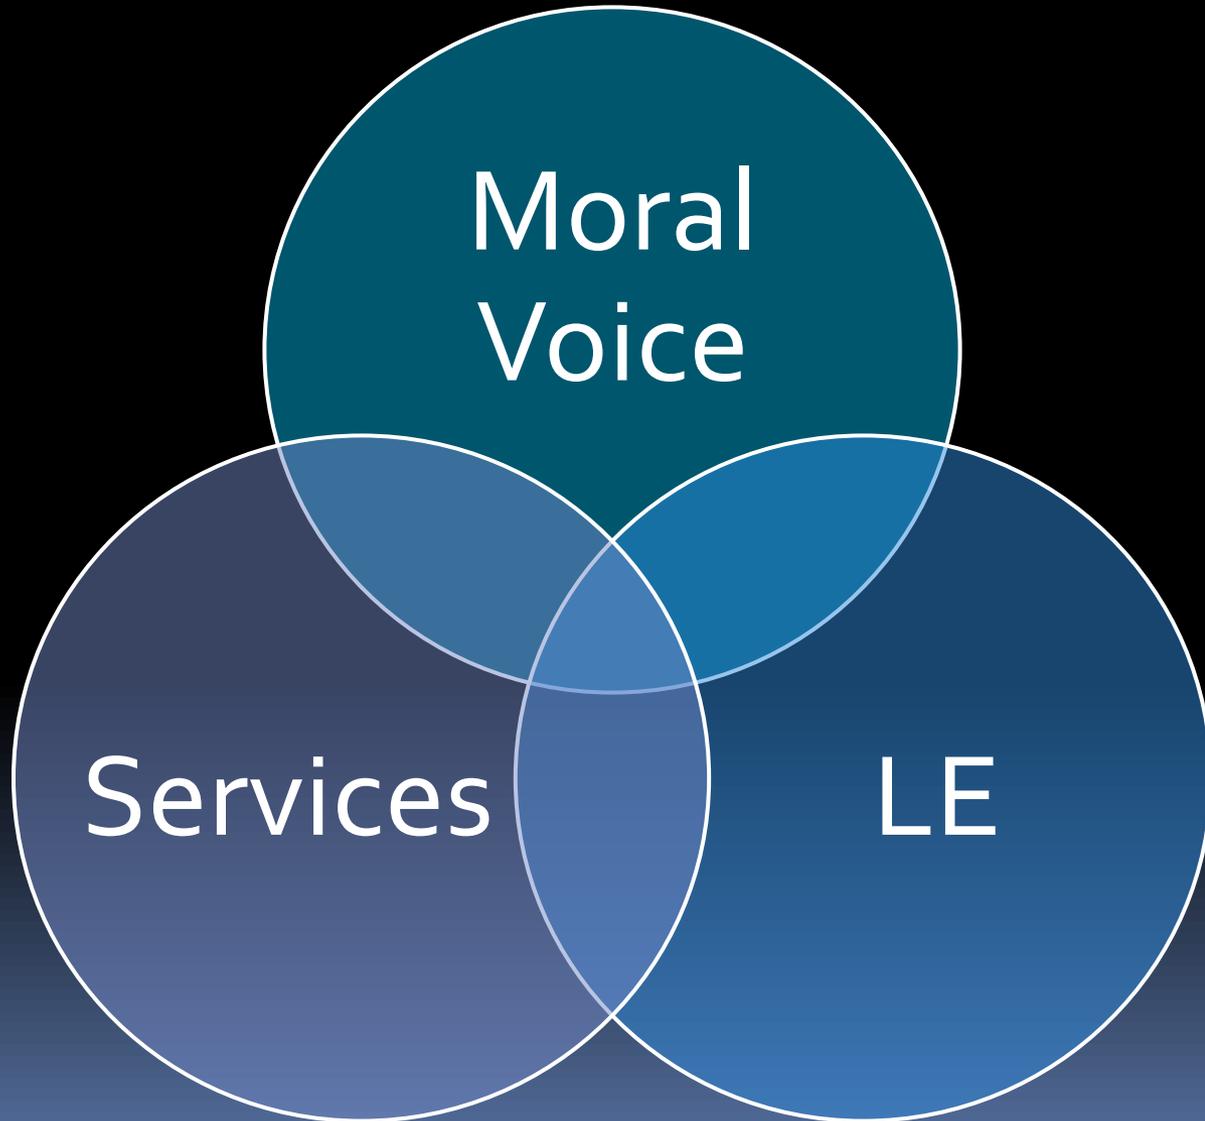

THE SPECIAL INVESTIGATION UNIT AND THE FOCUSED DETERRENCE MODEL

History and Evolution....

Philosophy...

Notification

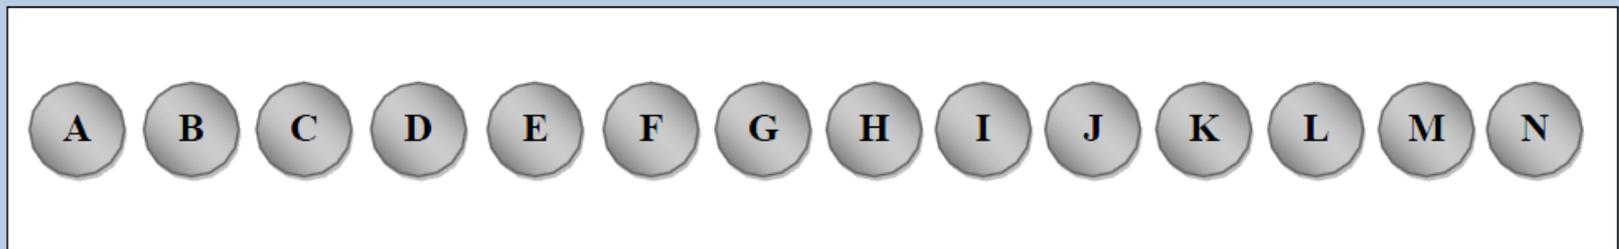

November 8, 2011

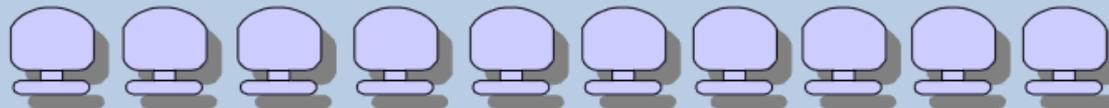

Notification

LAW ENFORCEMENT NOTIFICATION PANEL SEATING POSTIONS

LAW ENFORCEMENT/ PROSECUTOR'S PANEL

OFFENDERS

- A. DCI – DAVE MATHEWS
- B. DCSO – DAVE MAHONEY
- C. DEA – GARY JACKSON
- D. US MARSHAL- D. NEVILLE
- E. DOC – ART THURMER
- F. DA – IZMAEL OZANNE

- G. MPD - NOBLE WRAY
- H. USA – JOHN VAUDREUIL
- I. US PROBATION – KENT HANSON
- J. ATF – DIANE POSPYHALLA
- K. FBI – CHRIS COLE

- L. IRS – KELLY JACKSON
- M. CITY ATTORNEY – MARCI PAULSON
- N. FITCHBURG – DON BATES

Community Against Violence: The “CAV”

- Urban League
- Madison Urban Ministry
- Voices Beyond Bars
- Neighborhood Intervention Program
- Access Community Health Care
- Centro Hispano
- Joining Forces for Families
- Department of Public Instruction/ GED
- TJ’s Support Brokerage Firm – MAP/TOP
- Construction Training Inc. (START)
- YWCA - Comprehensive Employment Services
- Journey Mental Health

Initial Candidate Screening

SIU Initial Candidate Summary

Candidate Name: XXXX X XXXXXXX DOB: 10/16/1979

LKA: XXXXXXXXXXXXXXXX

Status: Incarcerated until: 12/13/2011

Probation until: 02/14/2014

Agent Name / Phone: Sue Tomaszewski 224-6337

Not Supervised

OVERVIEW: (DATE, OFFENSE, WEAPON)

0 # Pending Cases:

0 # Federal Convictions:

10 # Felony Convictions:

2009-Child Abuse X 2; Reckless Endangerment	2009-Battery by Prisoner; BJ
2009-Stalking 2005-Burglary (IL)	2000-Man / Del Controlled Sub
1998-Carry / Poss Firearm (IL)	1998-Burglary (IL)

14 # Misdemeanor Convictions:

2009-Violate Dom R.O.	2009-BJ; Violate Dom R.O	2009-Violate Dom R.O.
2008-Battery; DC	2008-DC 2008-DC	2008-Violate Dom R.O.
2007-BJ	2007-DC; CDTP	2006-Dom Battery (IL)
2005-Poss Controlled Sub (IL)

Completed by: Det. Cory Nelson

Det. Sam Kellogg

Det. Paige Valenta

DATE:

12/15/2011

DOC Locator

Federal Prison Locator

Summit / DCJ Locator

Criminal History: NCIC; FBI III / CIB

CCAP - Pending Cases

GOAL

- Officer Safety!

GOAL

- Communication

Madison police to double unit focused on repeat violent offenders

OCTOBER 09, 2012 6:00 AM • SANDY CULLEN | WISCONSIN STATE JOURNAL | 50

After less than a year, the Madison Police Department will double the number of officers in its Special Investigations Unit that focuses on repeat violent offenders.

In February, two detectives and an officer specializing in intelligence will be added to the Special Investigations Unit that was launched in June, said Lt. Tom Woodmansee.

The expansion is being funded by a federal Community Oriented Policing Program grant that runs for three years, said police spokesman Joel DeSpain.

"We have 30 (notified offenders) now — in a year, we could have 60," he said.

The Special Investigations Unit works with state, federal and county agencies to identify and monitor offenders. So far, three groups of 10 offenders each have been identified as being under the microscope.

lineup of high-ranking law enforcement officials. The group of offenders in the first notification alone was responsible for some 400 offenses.

COVER STORY

'The ultimate win is that somebody contributes to the community, changes their behavior.'

Harris, 31, is one of 10 violent offenders put on notice three months ago as part of a program started by the Madison Police Department but carried out in no small measure by social service providers, nonprofits and faith-based groups willing to take on the challenge of helping chronic offenders succeed.

The "notification call-in" as police dubbed it, took place on Oct. 8 in a som-

Dane County District Attorney Ismael Ozama stares at one of the 10 violent offenders who were put on notice by law enforcement at a it offers and how he wants to give back to the community that is helping him.

"Now I have five-and-a-half months left" on parole, he says, "and they asked me to do a video at the end of the program and how you can make it a success story. So I agreed to do that."

Chatting about his turnaround at his home, Harris is easygoing and quick with

The group of offenders in the first notification alone was responsible for some 400 offenses.

As of right now, the group is for the most part staying out of trouble, which means they aren't clogging up the criminal justice system. You give them a chance, the theory goes, help them with their basic needs and they might succeed, which provides the community with a net gain in terms of money and safety.

If they don't take the chance that's offered, you send them away for as long as possible so they can offend no more.

The Madison Police Department plans to give offenders that chance, 10 at a time, three times a year in an effort to whittle away at the chronic offender population in a way that other communities have.

The second group faces the music on March 20.

Of Harris' group, two are facing

'The crimes that are going to get them thrown back in prison are violence, domestic abuse and drug dealing.'

BLOG LOG

Crime & Courts
BY STEVEN ELBOW | selbow@madison.com

City to chronic offenders: Go s...

'By going after the worst of the worst it will send a message.'

MADISON DETECTIVE TOM WOODMANSEE

It's Friday morning, and Madison Police Detective Tom Woodmansee is looking ready for what could potentially be the most significant event in local policing in many years. Since January he's given maybe 45 formal presentations to law enforcement counterparts and researched his topic from end to end.

All that came to fruition on Tuesday, when a group of 10 of the city's most chronic offenders were offered a choice: Go straight or else.

It's not an idle threat. They were escorted into a room

'I LEFT MY PAST IN MY PAST'

Ex-offender Carlton Harris tries to turn his life around, with help from the community

By STEVEN ELBOW » The Capital Times » selbow@madison.com

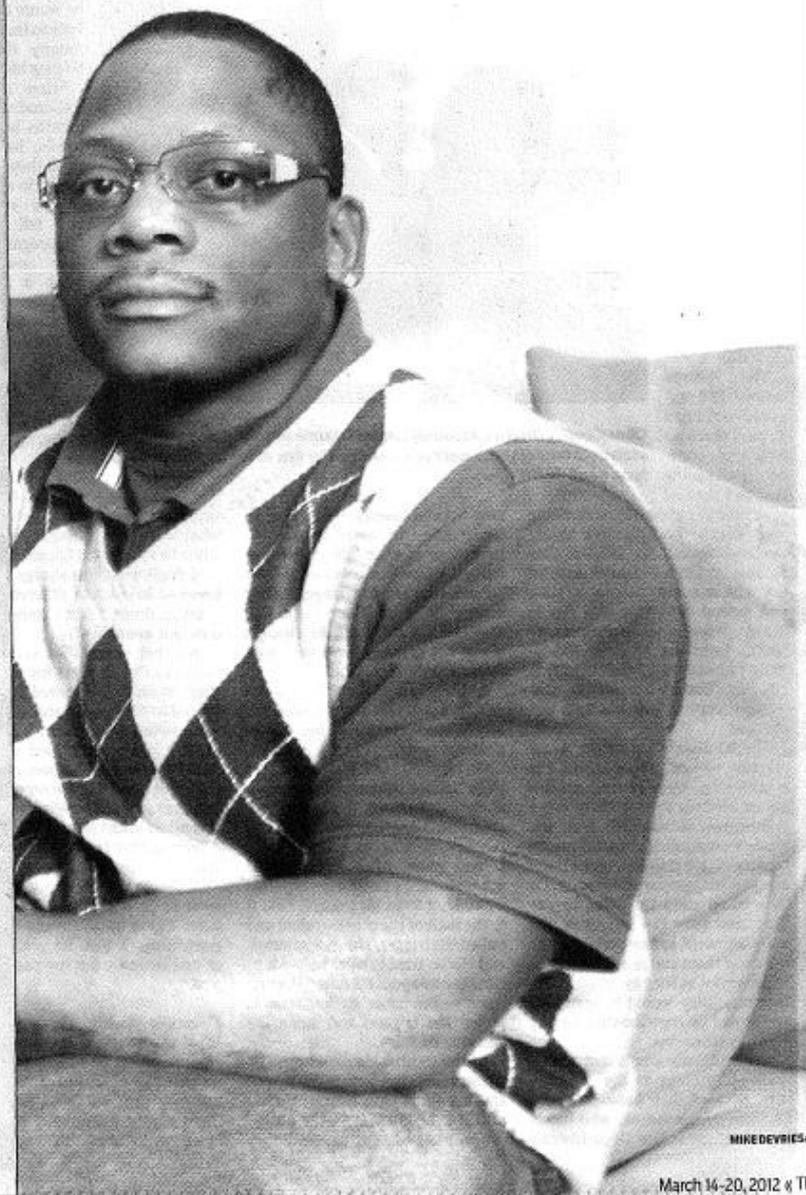

To look at him, you wouldn't figure clean-cut, calm and soft spoken Carlton Harris for someone who once tried to shoot a fellow high school student. You wouldn't suspect that he started dealing drugs at age 12 and built a criminal resume that includes numerous assault convictions, plus more for drug dealing, robbery, burglary and bail jumping.

Harris doesn't like to dwell on all that. He's preoccupied with the future.

"When I got out of prison I was ready to become a productive member of society," he says, "to change my past ways. I know I can't take back everything that I've ever done, but I can work toward my future because I'm still young."

But the community isn't ready to forget about his past offenses — at least not yet.

Carlton Harris, at home in Madison

MIKE DEVIRES

SIU Follow Up

Home visits with P&P

Checking in and verifying

Coordination with Resources & Community

Criminal Investigations

Notification Statistics

- 30 Offenders -

▣ Total Charges: 988

▣ Total Felony Convictions: 232

▣ Total Misdemeanor Convictions: 288

▣ Total Number of Victims: 277

Homicide

Sexual Assault
of Children

Armed Robbery

Shootings

Significant Domestic Violence

Success= Reduction in Crime!

- 1 year out...
 - 4 Returned to Prison
 - 50% reoffended
 - No weapons violations
 - 2 new victims

“I support the Special Investigations Unit..this is evidence-based policing..I watched the video where you were offered services to get help and you chose not to accept them.”

Circuit Court Judge Stephen Ehlike upon sentencing Emon Hollins to 13 years in prison originating from two misdemeanor charges.

“You and your attorney have portrayed the Special Investigations Unit as bully and that they are going after you...well maybe you need to be bullied because I look at all of the victims you have created and see that you are the one who is the bully.”

Circuit Court Judge William Hanrahan sentencing Eric Alston to 12 years for Misdemeanor domestic charges.

“SIU is putting the fear of god into these defendants.”

-Defense Attorney after several clients waived revocation.

“Even if I was out, I couldn’t do nothing about it because I’m in the program!”

-Damien Smith, Notified 11/8/11

“They following me, they are on point!”

-Emon Hollins, Notified 11/8/11

“I dream about you, you are all in my dreams.”

-Tyrone Stevenson, Notified 3/20/12

Madison Police Department:

Chief Noble Wray

Nwray@cityofmadison.com

Lieutenant Tom Woodmansee (608) 261-9617

twoodmansee@cityofmadison.com

Detective Samantha Kellogg (608) 266-4694

skellogg@cityofmadison.com